Table 3: Evaluation on the Integration of Scaffolded Reciprocal Teaching in English for Academic and Professional Purposes in Written Task in terms of Fluency

Question	Codes	Summary of the Responses
	Written Task
In what way/s does scaffolded reciprocal teaching improve your fluency in learning English for Academic and Professional Purposes?	Fluency Writing sentences clearly	Scaffolded reciprocal teaching significantly improved fluency in writing. Teachers now understand English sentences, and student's essays have content. The repetitive roles have made students more comfortable and confident with writing activities.
	Correctness of spelling	Improved spelling in writing, becoming familiar with various words.
	Awareness on the use of appropriate words	Becoming more aware of words for written activities, improving sentence writing speed and understanding difficult words. Clarifying and guessing techniques help student understand word meanings and construct sentences effectively.
	Writing with accuracy and speed	Improved sentence construction due to prior knowledge.
	Assessing writing	Can correct own sentences by recognizing correct spellings and analyzing texts. Structural support helps explore and develop fluency in English, even if not perfect. This skill is useful in essays and other English-related writing.

Table 3 discloses the evaluation on the integration of scaffolded reciprocal teaching in English for Academic and Professional Purposes in written task in terms of fluency. Those are writing sentences clearly and correctness of spelling, awareness on the use of appropriate words and writing with accuracy and speed and assessing writing. These are testified by the following participants.

Malaki po ang naging tulong sa akin ng scaffolded reciprocal teaching pagdating po sa aking fluency. Kung noon po ay hindi ako makapag-sulat ng sentences, ngayon po ay naiitindihan na po ng mga teachers ang mga sinusulat ong sentences sa English.-(S1)

(Scaffolded reciprocal teaching has helped me a lot when it comes to my fluency. If before I couldn't write sentences, now the teachers can understand the sentences written in English.) -(S1)

...may laman na po yung mga naiisulat ko na essays-(S4).
(...the essays I wrote already have content.) -(S4).

Sa fluency po, siguro po ay yung kapag nag-cocompose po ako ng mga sagot na kailangan ay full sentences. Dahil sa mga roles na paulit-ulit naming ginagawa ay nasanay na po akong gumawa ng mga ano (writing activities). -(S8).

(In terms of fluency, maybe it's when I compose answers that require full sentences. Because of the roles that we repeatedly do, I have gotten used to doing things (writing activities)- (S8).

...fluent na po akong magsulat ng words ngayon, joke lang po! Pero promise po mas maayos na po ang sulat ko ngayon.

Pagdating po sa pagsusulat, kung dati o ay hrap na hrap ako sa spelling ay ngayon po ay medyo nafamiliarize ko na po ang ibang mga words. -(S9).
(...I can write words fluently now, just kidding! But I promise my writing will be better now. When it comes to writing, if I used to have a hard time with spelling, now I have become somewhat familiar with other words.) -(S9).

...bukod po dun, mas nagiging aware nadin po ako sa mga words na pwede kong magamit sa mga written activities ko. Katulad nalang po kapag ang role ko ay summarizer, mabilis na po akong nakakapag sulat ng mga sentence ngayon kasi naintindihan ko na din po yung mga words na nahihirapan ako noon. Isama pa po natin yung clarifying at guessing na techniques, ang laking tulong po sa akin na malaman ang meaning ng mga words na nagagamit ko din sa pag-coconstruct ng mga sentences. -(S12).

(...besides that, I am also becoming more aware of the words that I can use in my written activities. It's just like when my role is a summarizer, I can write sentences quickly now because I have also understood the words that I had difficulty with before. Let's include the clarifying and guessing techniques, it is a big help for me to know the meaning of words that I can also use to coconstruct sentences.) -(S12).

...naku Ma'am ako ay mas mabilis na mag-sulat ngayon ng sentences kasi medyo may knows na ako. Dati po kasi ay hrap na hrap talaga akong mag-construct ng mga salita ay. -(S3).

(...oh Ma'am, I can write sentences faster now because I already know a bit. I used to have a really hard time constructing words.) -(S3).

...naiitama ko po yung sarili kong sentences na sinusulat kasi narerecognize ko po yung mga tamang spelling ng mga salita. -(S6).

(...I can correct my own sentences that are written because I can recognize the correct spellings of words.) -(S6).

Yes ma'am Kasi po Natutulong niya kami upang i-analyze kung paano yung tamang proseso ng mga text. -(S13).

(Yes ma'am Because she helps us to analyze how to properly process the texts.) -(S13).

By scaffolded, I can explore my... I can explore the text that I'm with, that help me in developing my fluency. Now, I can write English words even if I'm not good.

And I can use it every time I am writing an essay or every language that is all about English. -(S15).

(By scaffolded, I can explore my... I can explore the text that I'm with, that helps me in developing my fluency. Now, I can write English words even if I'm not good. And I can use it every time I am writing an essay or every language that is all about English.) -(S15).

The result implies that the students' fluency when it comes to writing improved by writing sentences clearly with the correctness of spelling. Students also become aware on the use of appropriate words. On the other hand, students assess their own writing with accuracy and speed.

According to Gina (2023) writing with fluency implies the reader will have no trouble understanding what is being said. Writers should utilize idiomatic language, words, phrases, or expressions that come naturally to native speakers to ensure that a piece flows. Additionally, writing with flow or more especially with dynamic sentences, makes your work simple to read. It offers your text an easily understandable content. In connection to this, teachers modeled the procedure and students applied the strategies. The more practice students had, the more they remembered what they were reading and understood the material. Scaffolded instruction by the teachers enabled students to become independent when monitoring their own comprehension. This was proven by the assessment on high school students in New Zealand before and after the implementation of reciprocal teaching.

After five weeks of reciprocal teaching, the students who received 12- 16 sessions made the most improvement. The students' fluency improved and their ability to use the strategies independently within this time frame. It is particularly useful for ESL students who are often able to decode a text but do not fully understand what they have read, Rotoloni (2009) as cited in Kelly, Moore & Tuck (1994).

Table 4 discloses the evaluation on the integration of scaffolded reciprocal teaching in English for Academic and Professional Purposes in written task in terms of content. In content, those are articulate concepts, composed a well-written content, improve critical thinking skills, and easiness to express thoughts and opinions. These are testified by the following participants:

Sa tulong po ng mga techniques ng scaffolded reciprocal teaching, mas mabilis ko pong naiintindihan ang mga nilalaman ng mga stories and passages. Kapag po nagsusulat ako ay mas mabilis ko naiipahayag ang mga gusto kong sabihin kasi mas naiintindihan ko na agad ang thought nito. -(S2).
